A lush green forest with a group of people lying on the grass in the foreground, and two women playing gongs in the middle ground. The scene is peaceful and serene, with sunlight filtering through the dense canopy of trees. The people are lying on their backs, some with their arms raised, suggesting a yoga or meditation session. The two women in the middle ground are standing and playing large, circular gongs mounted on a metal frame. The overall atmosphere is one of tranquility and connection with nature.
